Reds Reviving Cold War: Adlai

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson accused the Soviet Union Tuesday of reviving the cold war in the United Nations in an attempt to wreck peace efforts in the Congo and get Dag Hammarskjöld fired as secretary-general.

The U. S. chief delegate made the charge in replying to an hour-long speech by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in the General Assembly that was largely a restatement of previous Soviet Congo policy.

In his first assembly speech since taking his U. N. post, Stevenson said the "insane attacks" on the U. N. secretary-general imperiled the "very survival of the United Nations as an effective operating instrument for peace and progress."

He said Gromyko spoke "in the worst and most destructive traditions of the cold war" and the assembly could only accept this as evidence the Soviet Union regarded the United Nations "simply as an instrument of international discord."

Big Ovation

"The Soviet Union does not want the United Nations to succeed in the Congo," Stevenson declared.

He received a big ovation from delegates in the big blue and gold assembly hall at the conclusion of his comparatively short speech.

Gromyko got a scattering of applause.

Stevenson summed up the U. S. position by making these three points:

"The Soviet Union demands the resignation of the secretary-general. We will oppose this demand with all our strength. We must not allow the United Nations to be demeaned by vicious attack on its most dedicated servant."

"Secondly, the Soviet Union demands that the United Nations withdraw from the Congo within one month. The United States is totally opposed to this effort to replace constructive efforts of the world at large to achieve peace and reconciliation with anarchy. The United Nations must succeed in the Congo in the interests of all nations, large and small."

"In the third place, the Congo and the United Nations desperately need a period of quiet and of constructive cooperation during which we can help the Congolese to help themselves."

In addition to reiterating the Soviet demand for an end to the U. N. Congo operation within a month, Gromyko called again for the establishment of a three-man secretariat to replace Hammarskjöld, penalties against Belgium as the aggressor in the Congo, and U. N. recognition of leftist Premier Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville as the Congo's legitimate leader.

Tornado Hits E. Pakistan; 180 Killed

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—A tornado striking four East Pakistan districts Sunday killed 180 persons, officials reported Tuesday night.

Thirty-two were killed in a Roman Catholic church at Golla village, where the entire congregation of more than 100 remained after Sunday mass for shelter against the approaching storm.

The village is 20 miles from Dacca, the capital of the Bengali eastern part of Pakistan, but it was not until Tuesday that word of the church disaster reached here.

The tornado ripped off the roof and the walls collapsed on the congregation.

Officials said the tornado left a 150-mile trail of damage in its wake. Thousands of houses were demolished and hundreds of cattle perished, they said.

The officials, returning from a tour of the stricken district—Faridpur, Dacca, Mymensingh and Rangpur—said 105 persons were killed and more than 600 injured in one village alone.

'Exaggerated Faint' Seen Death Cause

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Dr. Joan Davison, graduate student at the University of Minnesota Medical School, may have died from an exaggerated faint, the coroner's office said Tuesday.

Dr. John A. Anderson, the Ramsey County coroner, said there were no marks of violence and an autopsy failed to establish cause of death of Dr. Davison, 31, formerly of Scranton, Pa.

Her body was found Sunday in her car, stuck in mud next to a Mississippi River Parkway in St. Paul.

Blood tests ruled out the possibility her death was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning, alcohol or barbiturates, Dr. Anderson said.

"She was a lone woman on a dark street when her car became stuck," the coroner said. "She may have been frightened enough to set off a functional collapse of her vascular system (a sudden drop in blood pressure)."

Dr. Anderson said he was continuing the investigation.

Choice Of Bravery Or Blindness

Okay Corneal Transplants

NEW YORK (AP)—For the three sisters it was a case of being brave—or going blind, as Grandpa and Mama did.

A clear choice, it would seem, but Jennie Hull, 57, of Bradford, Pa., and Reva Schneider, 44, of Miami, Fla., had to be talked to, and over, before they'd agree to go into the hospital for corneal transplants.

Lorraine— that is, Lorraine Schell, 51, of Garden City, N. Y., was the one who said it must be done.

The sisters all have corneal dystrophy, an affliction that has plagued four generations of the Charles Specht family.

Beyond Usual

The condition is beyond usual medical treatment. There was no surgery that could help Mother Gross or Grandfather Specht—there were no eye banks then—but there was help for the sisters.

Through the Eye-Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc., at the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, the sisters made arrangements to receive corneas left by donors. They planned that Lorraine would be operated upon first, at 9:30, then Jennie at 10:30 and Reva at 11:30. But Tuesday there was only one cornea available—from a young man of 29 who died Monday.

The sisters talked it over, and Jennie—who all along said she had a great fear—asked to be the one. Before the operation, she expressed her apprehension.

"If it wasn't for Lorraine, I think I'd never do it," she said. "I think it's natural to dread it. It gives you a funny feeling that you got something from a dead person."

"Well, it doesn't me, Jennie," said Mrs. Schell, who the sisters call their peppery ringleader. "I feel it is something they no longer need."

Sat Together

When Mrs. Hull was wheeled from the room to surgery, Mrs. Schell and Mrs. Schneider sat together on one bed.

They occupied themselves with talk of family and with worry about having to stay in the hospital waiting for the eye bank to get them corneas.

Mrs. Hull was wheeled back into the room. About half an hour had passed. Her left eye was covered with a surgical dressing. Her surgeon told her to rest easy and keep from talking, but she was jabbering away.

Overtaking U.S. Says Khru

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev told the Soviet people Tuesday they are overtaking the United States but cannot rest until the world is under the flag of communism.

Speaking over a nationwide radio hookup from the city of Alma Ata—capital of the pioneer agricultural Republic of Kazakhstan—the premier urged his people to work for new industrial and agricultural triumphs in fields ranging from tentmaking to corn production.

"We are happy when we build communism (here) but that is not enough," he said. "We shall be happy when people of all countries stand under the banner of Marxism-Leninism and the Communist banner flies over the whole planet."

To a storm of applause from the leading farmers and Communist officials of Kazakhstan, Khrushchev continued:

"Opponents of communism will say that Khrushchev expresses pretentious claims for the rule of communism. It is not a claim but a deep conviction based on a profound theory of the development of human society. It does not depend on me or any one person."

Turning to his theme of overtaking the United States, Khrushchev cited a statement by U. S. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg that the United States and the Soviet Union are close in steel production.

Found It Shocking

(At Duluth, Minn., last Wednesday, while touring unemployment areas, Goldberg said he found it shocking that Soviet steel production had equaled or surpassed the U. S. output. Alluding to the fact that the U. S. steel industry operated at only 66 per cent of capacity last year, Goldberg said he refused to accept the idea "that we do not need the steel that this country is producing.")

Referring to Goldberg's statement without quoting it in full, Khrushchev told his cheering audience:

Walter Receives Quick Action On House Bills

Special to The Daily Record
WASHINGTON — Rep. Francis E. Walter created quite a flurry within the first few minutes of Tuesday's session in the House of Representatives.

In order, the East Democrat: Heard his nominee, Hugh Moore,

"Not bad, comrades. You cannot imagine the great happiness of our people when we also overtake the United States in the per capita production of meat. That would be a new victory important not only economically but of tremendous importance politically."

This will show once more the great force of the Socialist system. With such aims it is worthwhile to work well, comrades."

Khrushchev is nearing the end of a long tour aimed at lashing inefficient farm managers into producing more crops than during the past two years.

president and chairman of the board of Dixie Cup Corp. of Easton, appointed by Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn to the NATO Commission.

Won unanimous approval of his bill that provides that no person who falsely answers or wilfully refuses to answer questions relating to subversive activities shall be employed on any United States merchant ship or at certain waterfront facilities in this country.

Introduced a bill to plug loopholes in the law relating to shipments of foreign Communist propaganda into the United States, and Inserted in the Congressional Record a 15-page speech taking issue with the Supreme Court Justices who recently dissented in a 5-4 decision upholding contempt of Congress convictions against two witnesses who refused to answer certain questions pertaining to Communist activities.

Will Participate

All of the action came within the first 15 minutes the House was in session.

Moore's appointment by Speaker Rayburn was one of 20 that will be made by Rayburn and Vice President Lyndon Johnson. These men, Walter explained, will participate in an International Convention of representative citizens from the North Atlantic Treaty nations to examine how greater political and economic cooperation among the peoples may be promoted.

The House on the consent calendar unanimously approved Walter's bill to amend the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950. It provides that no individual who wilfully fails or refuses to answer, or falsely answers, certain questions relating to subversive activities, when summoned to appear before certain federal agencies, shall be employed on any merchant vessel of the United States or within certain waterfront facilities in the United States.

The bill, introduced on Feb. 23 as H.R. 4469, was on the consent calendar March 6 but was rejected when an objection was raised by Rep. John V. Lindsay of New York.

Rep. Lindsay raised an objection again yesterday, but he withdrew it when he was unable to get support from other members.

Walter, of his latest bill, said he introduced it at least partly because a recent order by President Kennedy would "discontinue the Government's practice of intercepting Communist propaganda mailed into this country."

Continuing Walter said studies of the Committee on Un-American Activities, of which he is chairman, show there is a steady increase in the volume of Communist propaganda entering the United States at various ports of entry.

"Certainly, any other party going on the premises would be a trespasser," he said.

Hayes appeared before a subcommittee whose chairman, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., has charged that Hayes reneged on contracts to build quarters for service families at five different posts.

The handsome, white-haired, 50-year-old Los Angeles contractor, once the cafe society squire of Zsa Zsa Gabor, was accompanied by the blonde Finnish beauty he expects to marry in another month. His fiancée, Ralli Hanninen, 26, said she met Hayes only recently at Acapulco, Mexico.

Hayes has been south of the border while Senate groups and government agencies investigated his construction shutdown last May. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., had characterized his journey as skipping to Mexico, but Hayes accepted the senators' invitation to come back and give his side of the story.

His side was that the Federal Housing Administration pressed "most unreasonable" demands for cash and bonds. FHA hurt him to the extent of $5 million, Hayes said, and all its demands would have required $14 million in extra cash.

Fair Entries Hit New High

AN AVALANCHE of exhibits has pushed registration figures for the Monroe County Science Fair to a new high this year, officials disclosed last night.

According to William H. Bolles, registration clerk, entries were received from 117 students in the junior high school division and 158 in the senior high division for a grand total of 275 exhibits. Last year, 189 exhibits were registered.

A complete list of the entries will be published in tomorrow's Daily Record.

By categories, they are as follows:

To Enthroned New Prelate

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Archbishop John J. Krol will be enthroned Wednesday as the 10th prelate of the Philadelphia Archdiocese.

Invited to attend the dramatic, centuries-old ceremony were 75 members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States. Many other churchmen, both of the clergy and the laity, are expected, too.

Volunteers were working overtime last night setting up a sufficient number of tables in the East Stroudsburg Armory to accommodate all the entries. Judging of the exhibits will start at 7 p.m. today following a dinner meeting of the judges at East Stroudsburg State College.

The fair will be opened to the public at a ribbon-cutting ceremony Thursday at 4 p.m. Taking part will be representatives of each of the sponsoring groups: Justin Feltham, Barrett Township High School, for the science teachers; Henry Klerx, president of the Industrial Management Club, and Horace G. Heller, general manager of The Daily Record.

Awarding of prizes will take place Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and the exhibits will remain open for public inspection until 9:30 p.m. On Friday, the fair will be open from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. All exhibits must be removed from the armory by Saturday at noon.

Still Hopeful For Solution To Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported Tuesday night as planning strong measures to bolster the military forces of the pro-Western government of Laos in its fight with Soviet-backed rebels.

At the same time the President was represented as still somewhat hopeful that a diplomatic solution might yet be found for the Laotian crisis before the United States and the Soviet Union become more deeply involved.

Kennedy conferred for 90 minutes during the afternoon with his top military and diplomatic advisers on the critical situation. It was the second such session in two days. The group at the White House included Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. There was no announcement of any decision.

Immediately afterward Rusk returned to the State Department and conferred with British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia and French Ambassador Herve Alphand. It is understood he gave them a report on U. S. planning to deal with the growing crisis in the Southeast Asian kingdom if diplomatic efforts to restore peace there proved futile.

Postponed Conference

Kennedy postponed his news conference from Wednesday until Thursday afternoon. The White House said the Laotian situation was not responsible, but there was reason to believe Kennedy wanted more time to consider U. S. policies with respect to Laos before facing questions about possible lines of action.

One development on which Kennedy seemed to be waiting was the reaction of Soviet Premier Khrushchev to a meeting here last Saturday between Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. In that conference Rusk is said to have reinforced the earlier statement of U. S. position made to Khrushchev by U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson 10 days ago.

On both occasions, informants said, Kennedy's readiness to try to make Laos a completely peaceful and neutral country was heavily emphasized, along with the President's concern about the dangers of increasing conflict unless the crisis is resolved.

Khrushchev is said to have given Thompson no encouragement for Soviet cooperation in seeking a completely neutralized Laos. But Khrushchev's reaction to Rusk's talk with Gromyko is still awaited here.

There appeared to be little doubt in official quarters here that Kennedy is determined to move in the near future, at least to the extent of increasing the flow of heavy military equipment to Laotian government forces.

Three Americans Are Released

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—King Hassan II of Morocco ordered the release Tuesday night of 11 oil prospectors — including three Americans — captured by tribesmen south of his borders in the Spanish Sahara March 11.

The king took the occasion to reassert Moroccan claims to Rio de Oro—Spanish Sahara—and excuse the tribesmen for detaining the oilmen.

Hassan said the 11 were seized because of the "legitimate impatience of those of our faithful subjects who are still under foreign domination."

Area Students On Penn State Dean's List

SEVEN area students have been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at Pennsylvania State University.

An average of 3.50 out of a possible 4.00 is necessary for selection. One of the seven—William H. Fahringer, 44 Broad St., Stroudsburg, a senior in electrical engineering—had a perfect average for the semester. The others named:

Frank J. Radler, Jr., 179 Rosebriar Lane, Stroudsburg, a senior in arts and letters, 3.50; Marvin G. Hawk, Snydersburg, a junior in agricultural education, 3.62; Richard H. Bonser, Brodheads-ville, RD 1, senior in engineering science, 3.57; Robert D. Emrick, Blaine St., Bangor, sophomore in physics, 3.63; Robert M. Jones, Hillcrest Acres, Bangor, senior in vocational industrial education, 3.63; and Franklin M. Madden, Newfoundland, a junior in dairy science, 3.75.

Promoted Top Grader At Depot

M-Sgt. George H. McCollum, of Mt. Pocono, has reached the highest rung on the Army's promotional ladder for enlisted men. Promoted yesterday at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot to sergeant major, E-9, he is the second enlisted man at the post to hold this newly established super-grade. The other is M-Sgt. Maurice Gibson, of 1205 W. Main St., Stroudsburg.

McCollum has been serving as sergeant major of the depot's 972nd Signal Bn since Sept. 1960. This is his second period of service at the local Army post, having been stationed here from 1956 to 1958. During his first tour of duty, he helped organize the depot's Honor and Color Guard, serving as its first non-commissioned officer-in-charge.

Entered in 1945

He entered the Army from Mt. Vernon, Ky., in June 1945, and has served overseas more than nine years, six of them in Germany.

McCollum was among the first United Nations troops to land in Korea in 1950. A platoon sergeant of infantry, he won the Bronze Star Medal for bravery.

He also holds the Combat Infantryman's Badge, and the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in Korea.

McCollum is married to the former Alberta Watkins of Berea, Ky. They have two children, Vicki Joan, 6, and Steven, 2.

Three Deeds Filed At Courthouse

THREE DEEDS were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

Archie M. and Betty Jane Van Why, Stroudsburg, to Steven F. Mehas, Stroud Township, property in Stroud Township; Joseph and Antoinette Indelicato, Brooklyn, N.Y., to Joseph and Rose Zaffarese, same address, five properties in Coolbaugh Township; Earl B. and Bertha R. W. Putnam, Haverford, to Walter J. and Evelyn J. Sherman, same address, property in Pocono Township.

Frank Sebring 79, Eastburg, RD 3

FRANK Sebring, 79, East Stroudsburg, RD 3, died in Monroe County General Hospital yesterday morning. He had been hospitalized for four weeks.

He was the son of William and Ellen Bishling Sebring and was a lifelong resident of the Cherry Lane section of Monroe County. A farmer, he was a member of the Cherry Lane Methodist Church.

Surviving are one sister, Miss Lizzie Sebring, Cherry Lane, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Gantzhorn funeral home, Tannersville. Rev. Donald Hamblin, of Hartford, Conn., a former area resident, will officiate and burial will be in Cherry Lane Methodist Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Friday.

Trial Date Set For Trio Accused In Depot Thefts

CHIEF Federal Judge John W. Murphy of Scranton set April 5 at 10 a. m. as the date for the trial of three area men who have entered pleas of innocent to charges of stealing government property from the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

The men were identified as Charles H. Beck, 57, Carbondale; Howell H. Whiting, 64, Mt. Pocono, both of whom were employed at the depot when indicted, and Francis B. Widdows, 53, a justice of the peace at Swiftwater, and an employee of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad at Tobyhanna when indicted.

Plead Innocent

Harry Zinskie Jr., 29, of 913 Lincoln Ave., Blakely, and Walter E. Smith, Stroudsburg, entered pleas of innocent to the same charges.

Atty. James E. O'Brien represents Beck; Atty. Sidney Krawitz represents Whiting and Atty.

Henry McGrath represents Widdows.

In other actions, Lionel W. Miller III, entered a plea of "guilty" to transporting a car from Budd Lake, N. J., to Stroudsburg. Miller is represented by Atty. James Walker.

Eastburg State Charity Ball Is Dedicated To Mrs. Harvey

WHILE THE proceeds of the annual Spring Charity Ball, to be held at East Stroudsburg State College Saturday night, will be given to Monroe County's Muscular Dystrophy Fund, the custom for several years — this year the affair will be dedicated to Mrs. Camille Harvey of East Stroudsburg.

The dance is given under the auspices of the local chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity. Art Schisler, president of ESSC's chapter, announces that the fraternity's governing board has voted that Mrs. Harvey's "worthy services on behalf of the mentally retarded children of this area should be recognized."

Mrs. Harvey is a phactor at the Monroe County Day Care Training Center, where she has worked unceasingly to help the mentally retarded.

To Crown Queen

The president of Alpha Phi Omega will introduce Mrs. Harvey during intermission. She will then crown 1961's Miss ESSC.

Ten women have been nominated by the different campus clubs as their candidates for queen. The queen will be chosen on the basis of campus wide balloting, and her identity will be kept secret until the night of the ball.

'Springtime in Paris' is the theme of this year's event. Matt Gillespie's fourteen-piece orchestra will play from a typical vine-covered French patio; a sidewalk cafe, complete with a huge red and white awning, checkered tablecloths and candles, will be reserved for the guests.

Pledges of the fraternity will stroll through the crowd, disguised as French waiters, and drinks.

A replica of the Eiffel Tower will be erected on one corner of the dance floor, and the Arc de Triumphant will be in the center. Its flower-covered archway will be illuminated in soft colors as the dancers pass through it.

Unemployment Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise unemployment aid bill, President Kennedy's No. 1 legislative objective, was agreed on Tuesday. Quick passage in the Senate and House is expected.

Sponsors moved for a House vote Wednesday.

The two chambers had already passed slightly different versions of the legislation to extend, for as much as 13 weeks, unemployment insurance benefits for those jobless who have exhausted their rights.

Conferees split the differences. Payments could be made, under the bill, 15 days after Kennedy signs it.

Nichols Seeks Smithfield School Post

ROBERT A. Nichols, East Stroudsburg, RD 2, is a candidate for school director on the Republican ticket in the Primary election in Smithfield Township.

An employee of the Heat Exchanger Division of Patterson-Kelley Co., Inc., East Stroudsburg,

Robert A. Nichols

Nichols has resided at his present address with his wife and two children for the past 13 years.

Originally from Elmira, N. Y., Robert Nichols received his secondary education in Lebanon, Pa. He graduated from Liberty High School, Bethlehem, Pa., and entered Aviation Cadet training in the United States Air Force in 1944. Following World War II, he returned to Lehigh University where he completed his B.S. in Chemical Engineering.

Censorship Of Movies Debated

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A fundamental legal issue, movie censorship vs. freedom of expression, was debated Tuesday before the State Supreme Court.

The seven-man appellate court heard lengthy arguments on this question: Is Pennsylvania's movie censorship code constitutional?

Atty. Gen. Anne K. Alpern said "yes." Miss Alpern urged the court to uphold the code.

Counsel for Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., William Goldman Theatres, Inc., and the Pennsylvania Association of Amusement Industries said "no." They asked overthrow of the code.

Miss Alpern argued that the motion picture code, enacted by the 1959 Legislature, is in the best interests of the public and is a "constitutional enactment within the police powers of the state."

Opposing attorneys contended the act violates freedom of speech and sets up standards that are "unconstitutionally vague."

The Supreme Court justices interrupted both sides often to pose probing questions or to clarify certain points.

A decision will be handed down later. The court meets next in Philadelphia April 17.

The 1959 act established a three-member board empowered to determine whether a film is obscene or unsuitable for children. Obscene movies and those which "incite to crime" are included in the latter category.

The Commonwealth appealed from a Dauphin County Court ruling last July 30 that the code is unconstitutional and inoperable.

213 Petitions For Judgeship

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Bureau of Elections said Tuesday that only eleven of the 224 petitions filed for party nominations for judgeships in the May 16 Primary elections have been withdrawn.

The deadline for withdrawing petitions was Sunday.

Since Pennsylvania permits candidates for judgeship nominations to file for the nomination of both parties, actually only eight candidates have withdrawn from the primary.

All but one were candidates for Common Pleas Court nominations. Republican Joseph J. Utsynski of West Hazleton and H. Monroe Houtz of Dallas Twp., who had cross-filed, withdrew from the Luzerne County 11th district Common Pleas race, leaving three cross-filed candidates.

Costs Are Up

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Bank of Mexico says the cost of living has jumped 54 per cent in Mexico since 1953 while the buying power of the peso has dropped 35 per cent.

The prevalence of spots in the sun have long been connected with earthly social upheavals. It has been noted that the American, French and Russian revolutions occurred at times of maximum solar activity.

Civil War Background In Stroud Union Concert

IN COMMEMORATION of the 100th anniversary since the beginning of the Civil War, in 1861, the Stroud Union high school choruses will sing, as part of their annual Spring concert, a number of songs from that historical era.

John Kupice, teacher in the Social Studies department at the high school, and his classes have done the research and written the narration, to be read by Philip Hansen. It will be a resume of the great war between the states, in words and music.

The concert theme this year is "A Time To Laugh and A Time To Mourn," with the backgrounded area on the Civil War illustrating the "Time To Mourn." The first half of the concert, "A Time To Laugh," will be made up of title songs from Broadway shows and movies.

Songs Involved
The songs involved include the old slave song, "My Child Is Gone"; Lincoln's campaign song, "Old Abe Lincoln Came Out of the Wilderness"; the West Point Alma Mater, "We Are Coming, Father Abraham";

"Battle Cry of Freedom"; "Dixie"; "The Yellow Rose of Texas"; "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground"; "Goober Peas"; "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp"; "Go Down, Moses"; and "Hymn of the Republic."

In a plea for peace the full chorus will conclude the concert with "Ballad of Brotherhood," by Joseph Wagner.

Kupice and the following students contributed heavily in preparing the narration. Assisting the faculty members were: Susan Custard, John Krause, Burnett Clark, and the members of the NATO Club, of which he is sponsor.

Others with prominent parts in this half of the program are Asa Raymond, who will give the Gettysburg Address; Russell LaBar, who will play the banjo in several numbers, and "Taps" on the bugle; soloists Linda Haigh, Howard Allegar, William Yost, Robert Hickey, and harmonica player Keith Drury.

Snyder To Direct
The concert will be given Saturday night, March 25, at 8 o'clock in Stroud Union high school auditorium, and will be under the direction of Numa Snyder.

Adult tickets are being sold by chorus members, and student admissions will be taken at the door.

In New Jersey Area

E-Burg Glee Club To Tour

THE 100-voice East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School Glee Club, under the direction of Kenneth Raessler, will tour schools in the area of Roselle Park, N.J., on Thursday and Friday, March 23 and 24.

The East Stroudsburg singers will stay at the homes of the parents of the members of the Roselle Park High School Chorus.

Festivities will begin Thursday night when Roselle Park High School will sponsor a reception and dance for the local group following a combined rehearsal of the two choruses.

Friday will find the East Stroudsburg Glee Club singing three concerts at high schools surrounding Roselle Park, followed by an evening concert for the townspeople of Roselle Park.

Accompanists of the Glee Club are William Stine, Linda Nittel, Alan Reader, Mary Sittig, and Susan Flory.

Special numbers will be performed by Patricia Rely, Kathy Heller, Ann Wilford, William Viecknicki, Thomas Whittaker, and James Albert.

Chaperones will be Mrs. William Stine of Portland, and Robert Zellner.

Says Must Cut Veterans' Aid

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Department of Military Affairs reported Tuesday it must cut back its assistance program for the families of hospitalized veterans because of a shortage of funds.

The department's Veterans' Commission said the present three month assistance program will be reduced to one month April 1. The move would affect the families of about 3,330 hospitalized veterans.

Meanwhile, Sen. John Carl Miller, D-Beaver, introduced a bill that would make the veterans assistance program 120 days instead of 90 days. He said he would press for immediate action to keep the program from taking effect because of a lack of funds.

A Flag At Every Home

In recent years, we've heard considerable comment about the failure of our people to display the American Flag on national holidays and similar occasions.

The Daily Record has joined patriotic groups in urging, from time to time, that Monroe Countians fly the colors, and found that surprisingly few people own one of the new 50-star flags.

Just as we believe that it is everyone's patriotic duty to display the colors, so are we inclined to think that failure to fly the flag is due more to a lack of opportunity to secure a flag than a lack of patriotism.

With this in mind, we have obtained a supply of the new 50-star flags in a size suitable for flying from front porch or windowsill. The flags are three feet by five feet in size and come in kits which include pole and metal socket for mounting. The Daily Record offers these flags at cost as a public service.

The American Flag, the Stars and Stripes, is the most beautiful in the world. It flies proudly over military posts, government and public buildings at all times.

The Daily Record would like to see a revival of the old custom of flying the flag at every American home on the appropriate days. This is one way our nation, our community and every citizen can show the free world that the Spirit of '76 is just as strong in our hearts today as it was 185 years ago.

By making the flags available to the public, this newspaper hopes its readers will take advantage of the opportunity to own and display one of the new emblems on each of the three holidays coming soon and on similar occasions in the future.

America's Debt To Public Schools

Never before has America's public school system been threatened with such extensive erosion from such varied directions.

The public schools are being indirectly weakened by the expansion of parochial and private preparatory schools, an incursion that would increase were these to be given general aid from taxpayers.

They are threatened by segregationist legislators in various Southern states committed to end public schools rather than desegregate them.

The system of universal free education thus imperiled is one basic element in the growth of American civilization that actually deserves the much misused modifier, "great."

It did not develop simultaneously with the American revolution. But it deserves to be classified as part and parcel of that revolution. For it follows the proposition that all men are created equal with the conclusion that all children are entitled to an equal educational opportunity.

The public school system—universal but diverse — has been probably the most effective unifier in the whole of the American melting pot.

It has kept the United States from having the kind of self-perpetuating class struggles that Marx said developing industrial societies must have. It has helped absorb immigrant waves that might have split another society.

Today, the melting pot necessity is diminishing. More parents can afford to consider alternate forms of education for reasons ranging from conscience to snobbery. In short, the peculiarly American need that created the public school system appears to have lost some of its force.

Certainly there is room for dissent, for the choice of other types of schooling, just as there has always been room for conscientious objection to other majority pursuits in a free society.

But today the country is approaching a half-hidden crisis in the life of public education. If the schools have weaknesses let Americans now strengthen them, not sow the seeds of further weakening.

Dichotomy Of Trade

Every week, mail comes from some industry or some press agents dealing with the subject of imports.

The concern is very profound. Certain American industries are convinced that they are being squeezed out of the American market by cheaper imported products. American workers are frightened.

Before World War I, when a free market existed, it was possible to fight unfair competition. Today, when governments determine the wages, hours of work, taxes, indirectly the prices of raw materials and subsidize enterprises by various devices, the markets of the world are no longer free and the danger to labor in a high-wage country is that jobs will be wiped out. This is one cause for increased unemployment.

The storage battery manufacturers, who are in direct competition with Japanese, find that some Japanese batteries are sold at a lower price in the United States than in Japan.

The Dry Battery Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Assn. consists of seven companies which employ 8,000 Americans and have an annual payroll of $35,000,000. This is not a very large number of workers, but they are widely scattered over the United States and their loss of employment would seriously affect many communities.

The transistorized radio set has grown increasingly popular in the United States. Young people carry transistor radios with them to sports, games and even to musical events. The transistorized radio has become acceptable very rapidly.

Having come into the market importantly in 1957, three years later, in 1960, the transistor portable radios sold against tube radios at the ratio of seven to one. Japanese manufacturers entered the American market immediately and can afford to underbid American manufacturers because of cheaper wages, lower taxes and government subsidies in Japan.

According to the American industry, American manufacturers make about 120 different types of radio batteries, this constituting a complete line. Their publicity says:

"However, three transistor types, No. 1015, No. 216 and No. 225, make up over 50 percent of total radio battery sales. The Japanese export to the U. S. only the most popular types."

The industry figures show:
U. S. Production
1959 — 5,800,000; 1960 — 12,000,000; 1961 — EST. 12,000,000.
Japanese Imports
1959 — 3,350,000; 1960 — 7,355,000.

The Pennsylvania Story

Junior Licenses

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Parents of teenagers throughout Pennsylvania should have more than passing interest in at least one piece of legislation now moving through legislative channels on Capitol Hill as in "home halls" where parental influence is most heavily (or lightly) felt.

Unquestionably, the "teenage bobbyvox lobby" will fight the legislation with every pound of bubble gum at its command — not so much perhaps in legislative halls here on Capitol Hill as in "home halls" where parental influence is most heavily (or lightly) felt.

The legislation in question is on the Senate calendar for consideration this week. In a nutshell it would require (now dig this, man!) that teenagers between 16 and 18 years of age (hoods and whatnot, as the current verbiage goes within the teenage brood) would no longer be issued standard operators' licenses for the operation of the family car (rod).

Instead, teenagers (also referred to by their counterparts at times as thugs) would be issued what would be known as "junior operators' licenses" from 16 to 18 ("strictly cloud nine stuff, dad").

So much for the jangled jargon jumpers.

In essence the pending legislation would require parental consent for the issuance of such licenses — but in addition, the parent could revoke the license! This is the way that section reads:

"Upon receipt of a withdrawal of consent duly acknowledged by the parent or persons in loco parentis who executed the consent on the basis of which a junior operator's license or a regular operator's license for a minor seventeen (17) years of age was issued, the Secretary (of Revenue) shall, provided the licensee has not reached the age of eighteen (18) years, revoke such junior operator's license."

And — where a license has been so revoked, "no new license shall be issued by the Secretary (of Revenue) until the licensee has reached the age of eighteen (18) years."

And — cloud nine or not — any member of the bubble gum brigade between the ages of 16 and 18 who has a junior operator's license may have it revoked by the Secretary of Revenue if he (or she) is involved in an accident "for which he is partially or fully responsible."

However — a regular operator's license may be issued to a minor 17 years of age and over "who has successfully completed a driver's training course approved by the Department of Public Instruction and who has not been involved in any accident for which he is partially or fully responsible . . ."

But here is a clause in the bill that unquestionably will double the sale of bubble gum: "No person possessing a junior operator's license or no person possessing a regular operator's license who is under eighteen (18) years of age shall operate any vehicle or tractor upon the highways of the Commonwealth between the hours of midnight and five o'clock A. M. unless he is accompanied by a parent or a person in loco parentis."

How about that one!

And here's another "spell-binder" for the "brood":

"No vehicle which is being operated by any person holding a junior operator's license shall be occupied by more persons than the manufacturer's advertised passenger capacity of the vehicle."

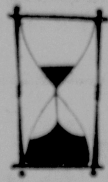

How's that for a "watch the needle" job?

Who were the stout senators who "dared" to sponsor the bill? Here they are — and a note from parents just might get to them before the kids themselves! — John H. Devlin, 510 Court Place, Pittsburgh 19; Benjamin R. Donolow, Land Title Building, Philadelphia 10; J. Hays, 441 West Fairmount Avenue, State College; John C. Miller, 110 Fifth Street, Alliquippa; Thomas J. Kaiman, 2 Mayflower Drive, Uniontown; Martin L. Murray, 34 Mary Street, Ashley; and Z. H. Omlair, 1327 Race Street, Williamsport.

About Town

—By Gene Brown

While I was stranded in the Cleveland airport two weeks ago trying to hop rides in half-truck planes, the view that shook me the most was a sign on the life insurance vending machine in the main lounge of the airport, that read "OUT OF ORDER."

An inventor kept working on a long-range automobile powered by electricity instead of gasoline. One day he walked into his club in New York and said: "I've done it. All the way from Mexico City, without a single accident, and used electricity instead of gasoline."

When asked how much the trip cost, the inventor answered: "Exactly $4,003. Three dollars for the electricity and $4,000 for the extension cord."

Reports From Congress

Unprecedented Force

By Congressional Quarterly
Washington — President Kennedy broke fresh ground in American history by appointing, before his inauguration, a total of 29 special task forces to report to him on a wide range of domestic and foreign policy areas.

A Congressional Quarterly review of past transition periods showed that, while other Presidents-elect sometimes asked individuals or small groups of experts to brief them on limited problem areas, there is no precedent for the wide number of task forces, some with large memberships, which submitted detailed pre-inaugural policy briefings to Mr. Kennedy. Perhaps the first suggestion for task forces came from Adlai E. Stevenson, meeting with Mr. Kennedy July 29 in Hyannis Port, who proposed that Kennedy request a single, concise, detailed foreign policy report for submission immediately following the election. Stevenson suggested the report should list foreign policy decisions the President-elect would have to make prior to his inauguration, plus a listing of long-range problems.

Stevenson Role — Kennedy asked Stevenson, his erstwhile rival for the Democratic Presidential nomination, to prepare such a report, and Stevenson agreed. The Stevenson report, submitted Nov. 14, contained in it a further proposal that Mr. Kennedy appoint a group of separate task forces on a wide range of specific foreign policy areas and subjects, charged with taking a cold, hard look at pressing questions and making specific recommendations for early Presidential action.

At the same time this proposal was made, Mr. Kennedy was considering appointing several task forces on both domestic and foreign policy. In appointments between late November and early December, he personally appointed a wide group of domestic policy task forces and also commissioned George W. Ball and John Shanon, Washington lawyers closely associated with Stevenson, to supervise preparation of a group of seven foreign policy task force reports.

Wide Range — The Kennedy task-force reports dealt with specific long-range problems, ranging all the way from disarmament to housing and urban development. The reports in the foreign policy field covered subjects such as Africa, India, Latin America, foreign economic policy, the Department of State and U. S. Information Agency organization and programs.

Reports on domestic policy covered agriculture, depressed areas, economic policy, education, taxation, health, and social security and natural resources.

Summing up eight weeks following the inauguration, Kennedy Administration spokesmen saw several clear advantages in the task force idea:

Task forces furnish the new President with a precise definition of the major policy decisions he must make — before and immediately following his inauguration.

Task force reports help the President to establish a sense of priority among various fields, providing him and his Budget Director and Counsel with a framework within which future policy may be considered.

They give the new President a way to tap the thinking of the Nation's best minds, obtaining fresh, non-governmental thinking not weighted down by parochial departmental interests. The President is free to accept or reject the advice which he is given.

In recommending controversial policies, the task forces may act as a "trial balloon" for policies the new Administration is thinking of endorsing. Or a task force report may simply serve as a public relations device to arouse popular support for a policy to which the President-elect is already firmly committed. The strong recommendation of area redevelopment legislation in the depressed areas report was an example of public relations use of the task forces.

Task force members may constitute a type of skeleton staff to which the President-elect may turn when he must make decisions during the transition period. Task force members briefed Mr. Kennedy, quite thoroughly, for example, in preparation for his Dec. 6 meeting with President Eisenhower.

Potential Appointees — Through the task forces, the President-elect may tap the talents of hundreds of talented Americans who might otherwise never come to his attention. From the ranks of task force members recruited from academic communities, business, the professions and foundations, he may find recruits for important Administration jobs. But before appointing them, he has a chance to see them at work, to note how they react under the pressure of short deadlines for task force reports, and how well they can work for others.

The CQ survey showed that an average of one person for each of the 29 task forces received an appointment to an important policy-making post within the new Administration. Prominent among these appointments have been men such as Stevenson, the new U. S. Ambassador to the U. N.; Paul H. Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs; James M. Landis, Special Assistant to the President for Regulatory Agencies; Walter W. Heller, Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and George W. Ball, Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs.

All task force members served without compensation. With the exception of the group organized by Ball and Shanon, all task force members were appointed personally by President-elect Kennedy following consultation with his Counsel, Theodore G. Sorensen.

Cadue Wins Top Primary Ballot Spot

JAMES V. Cadue, Democrat, won top spot on the ballot for the May 16 primary election for Monroe County treasurer in a drawing held yesterday in the office of Monroe County commissioners.

The drawing, a formality to decide the order of listing on the ballot, is usually not attended by the candidates. Cadue was not present yesterday.

The office was the only one on the county level for which a drawing was held, as there is no contest for the other county offices.

In addition to Cadue, candidates for treasurer are Donald A. Hunsicker, Samuel Everett and Warren Loney, Democrats, and Robert E. Van Pool and John R. Nauman, Republicans.

John C. F. Foelker, Democrat, and Dr. Paul R. Maxwell, Republican, are unopposed for nomination for county coroner, as are Leon F. Keller, Democrat, and Forrest L. Graves, Republican, for jury commissioner.

Job Training Said Inadequate

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Youngsters are not being adequately trained for jobs this country will require them to do in the future, the National Council of Jewish Women said Tuesday.

The council said it reached this conclusion from a survey by council volunteers with hundreds of school, industry, trade union and community agency personnel in 58 cities across the country.

Mrs. Sidney Weinstein of West Orange, N.J., chairman of the committee responsible for the survey, called the facts it revealed "a serious danger to the nation's economic health."

at a 100-acre goal during the coming forest fire year.

Wardens honored at the affair—20th—were Robert Bates for 40 years' service; Elwood Rohrback, 30; Jesse Felker and Wade Fisher, 30 years each; Norman Possinger, 20; and Robert Altomose and Dixon Miller, 10 years apiece.

McNamara cited the faults and lauded the efforts of the wardens in his talk. He particularly noted that on even years the record of the group was good, while on odd number years the toll of fires was bad.

Wet Seasons

However, McNamara pointed out, that the weather may have been a factor in the number of fires. He said a survey showed wet seasons prevailed during the even years. But he was not satisfied that this was the entire answer to the solution.

Northampton County was cited for last year's work for having only one fire at a cost of $20. Monroe's record in 1960 was 12 fires, totalling $2,004. Pike had 12 fires at a cost of a little over $1,000.

Ralph C. Wible, Pennsylvania State Forester of Harrisburg, was the principal speaker. Speaking on the theme, "How Times Have Changed," he brought out the history of the organization and for which it stands.

He urged a program of co-operation and education to continue the progress of the state group. Wible asked all wardens to bring the "message to all."

He also urged the assembled to ask themselves the question "Why fires are never started?"

Fire Inspector George Raish, Tannersville, introduced guests. They included Asa Shoemaker, inspector of Northampton County; Al Schultz, Valley Forge District; officials of Pocono Mountain Mutual Aid Cooperatives; H. R. Frantz, assistant executive director Bethlehem Authority, and Frank Smith, superintendent of Monroe County Highways Department.

Others presented to the audience by McNamara were Paul Drury and Ralph Heilig, assistant district foresters; Jake Kintz and Jack Dennison, service officials; Inspectors Raish and John Kerz; Dewey Streep, inspector of Pike County; Ed LaBar, ranger of Snow Hill; Mrs. Charlotte LaBar, employee of the area office, and Mrs. Motts and Harrison Slutter.

Kintz urged the wardens to kill the fallacy that "burning down forests will feed wildlife." He asked each to do his duty and attempt to down the remark "that burning forests aids animals."

Fire Prevention Aims

He emphasized that a little extra effort will help preserve the state's forests.

The wardens set fire prevention aims by adhering to:

1. Man caused fire occurrence;
2. analysis of existing risks and hazards.

They were told to consider: A. What is or could cause fires; B. where fires occur; C. when fires occur; D. when and how fires start; and E. who starts fires.

The group pledged to:

1. Provide for coordination of action;
2. insure against duplication of errors;
3. eliminate conflicting activity;
4. promote teamwork;
5. insure that the task at hand is completed in a minimum of time and with a minimum of effort.

A training film entitled, "Introduction to Fire Behavior," was shown following the business session.

Representatives of 18 area fire companies were in attendance. Pocono Twp. Fire Chief Ed Metzgar welcomed the wardens and his fellow volunteers who have aided many times the projects and work of the State forestry organization.

Local Firm Buys Sherman Theater

POCONO Theaters, Inc., yesterday announced that it has acquired the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg and will continue its operation.

The firm—owned by Jack Luckey, Stroudsburg, RD 2, and Charles Locke, Stroud Township—also operates the Grand Theater in East Stroudsburg and the Skyline Drive-In Theater.

A company spokesman said it is hopeful of bringing the area the best in film entertainment and feels that control of the three theaters will facilitate securing such films.

No Decision

No decision on a manager for the Sherman has been made as yet, the spokesman said.

It is also hoped at some future date to present live entertainment at one or more of the theaters controlled by the company.

Fire Takes Life Of Wind Gap Man, 75

WIND GAP—A 75-year-old man was burned to death yesterday as fire destroyed his home at 21 Jefferson St.

Edwin Kline was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. John Turtzo of Pen Argyl, Northampton County deputy coroner. Kline's body was found in the doorway of his house trailer to which two frame wings had been added.

Cause of the fire was not determined. Cpl. Michael Wargo, State Police fire marshal, investigated. Loss was estimated at $4,500.

Fire Chief Joseph Shoemaker said firemen were unable to rescue Kline because of excessive heat and dense black smoke. Kline and his wife were outside the building when the fire broke out. She quoted her husband as saying, "I'm going in." Efforts to dissuade him were unsuccessful.

Trying To Save Dog

Mrs. Kline was uninjured but was taken to the office of Dr. Robert Dreher, Wind Gap.

Witnesses said Kline apparently was trying to rescue his cocker spaniel dog. Mrs. Kline said she was not certain whether he was trying to save the dog or put out the fire. The dog is missing.

Wind Gap firemen were called by Mrs. John Ashman, who lives at Center and Jefferson Sts. She reportedly suffered a leg cut trying to kick in the door of the burning building to rescue Kline.

Miss Brown, S-burg, Dies

MISS AIMEE Brown, 761 Main St., Stroudsburg, died at 7:30 p. m. yesterday in Mar-Ment Nursing Home, East Stroudsburg, after an illness of two months.

She was born in Stroud Township, the daughter of Joseph and Irene Kortright Brown, and was a lifelong resident of the area. She was employed for 22 years at Skytop Club until her retirement 10 years ago.

She was a member of Stroudsburg Methodist Church, its Westwood Sunday School Class, the Leisure Hour Club and Dames of Malta Sisterhood 46.

Surviving are three nieces, Miss Doris Brown and Miss Eleanor Brown, both of Stroudsburg, and Miss Helen Walters, Reading.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Friday in the William H. Clark funeral home. Rev. Roger C. Stimson will officiate and burial will be in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

There will be no viewing.

SU Teachers Cite Honor Unit Students

STROUD Union Teachers Assn. entertained at a reception in the school auditorium last night in honor of junior and senior high school students whose scholastic achievements had won them membership in the National Honor Society.

Parents of the students were invited to attend the reception which was highlighted by the presentation of membership pins followed by an address by Dr. John Appel, head of the Social Studies Department at East Stroudsburg State College.

Earlier in the day, eight students were inducted into the Junior National Honor Society and 12 were initiated into the National Honor Society.

Junior Group

In the junior group were Walter Borck, Susan David, Dawn Frailey, William Howard, David Rheinheimer, Martin Vogt, Raymond Wallace and Richard Zepel.

Other members of the society: Nancy Altomose, Linda Anthony, Ethel Burrows, David Davis, Cheryl Decker, Jean Dennis, William Grimm, Richard Hellmann, Linda Kostna, Parke Kunkle, Joy Miller, Patricia Ponder, Connie Puzio, Abbey Schulman, Alexander Whitlow and Ruth Ann Zettlemoyer.

Inducted into the senior group were Carol Arnold, Patricia Burtner, Philip Hansen, Gertrude Hellmann, Lois Metzgar, Carol Sabinsky, Pamela Tittle, Patricia Bridge, Gail Patchen, Marie Roth, Margaret Schell and Geraldine Zilko.

Other members: Maryanna Benson, Kathleen Dennis, Charles Eyer, Evangeline Giouris, Linda Haigh, Barbara J. Hill, Mary Louise Lillius and David Miller.

Raymond Serfass is faculty adviser of the senior group and Mrs. Frances Feltham of the junior society.

Ira Nagler, scholarship chairman of the teachers' association, presided at the program. He introduced Mrs. James Kitson, PTA president, and Mrs. Andrew Kaiser, vice president, who made the presentation of membership pins.

Four Points

Dr. Appel told the students to remember four points as they travel the path of honor; your life does not belong to you alone, but to others as well; you must make each step better than the one before if you expect to get the most out of life; the way of honor is the way of drudgery, hard work and often solitude, and you must expect the path to turn into second choices which must be made creative as though they were first choices since second, third and fourth choices often become uppermost in one's life.

John Montgomery is president of the teachers' group, which served refreshments in the cafeteria after the reception. Yesterday morning, the Junior Honor Society initiated its new members at a candlelight ceremony during assembly. At the afternoon assembly period, attended by Grades 9-12, the senior society inducted its members and heard and address on "Excellence" by Dr. Francis B. McGarry, dean of instruction at East Stroudsburg State College.

No Injuries In Accident

NO ONE was injured in a two-vehicle collision on Route 940, six miles west of Mt. Pocono, at 7:05 p.m. yesterday.

State Police at Mt. Pocono identified the drivers as Russell Altomose, 55, Long Pond, operating a dump truck, and Lawrence LoRusso, 31, Wilkes-Barre, driving a pickup truck. Damage was estimated at $50

Ban Of Death Penalty Aim Of Governor

HARRISBURG (AP)—A firm commitment to support abolition of capital punishment in Pennsylvania was given Tuesday by Gov. Lawrence.

Lawrence said he would sign a bill to ban the death penalty if the legislature sends it to him. The governor said before he was personally opposed to capital punishment but until now he has never indicated he would sign an abolition bill.

Lawrence said he had studied the matter for some time and was convinced the death penalty wasn't a deterrent to crime. Pennsylvania imposes it only on persons convicted of first degree murder. However, a jury can recommend life imprisonment as a substitute.

Favors Abolishment

The governor said the commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill" means what it says and that was one reason he favored abolition. He also noted a stand taken over the weekend by the Episcopal Church against the penalty.

he Pennsylvania Council of Churches has been lining up support for the abolition bill.

A joint senate-house committee will hold public hearings here Wednesday and Thursday in its study of whether the penalty is a deterrent to crime.

Sen. Benjamin R. Donolow, D-Philadelphia, committee chairman, said he thought Lawrence's statement would help influence passage of the bill. Donolow, a criminal lawyer, is against the penalty.

He said the committee expects to hold hearings in Pittsburgh and possibly Erie "so that all sides interested in this issue" can be heard. A previous hearing was conducted in Philadelphia.

Donolow said he thought the committee's report would be submitted to the legislature in early April and that action on the bill itself would follow quickly. But he declined to predict what the chances of passage are.

If the proposal becomes law, Pennsylvania will be the 10th state to eliminate the death penalty and substitute life imprisonment. The others are: Alaska, Hawaii, Delaware, Maine, Rhode Island, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Lawrence also said he would consider delaying the execution of convicted murderers facing the chair in Pennsylvania until the legislature acts on the bill.

State Pardons Board records showed there are eight inmates awaiting electrocution at Rockview State Penitentiary. The last person to die was Robert Lee Williams Oct. 28, 1959.

House Unit Okays 70 Judgeships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday approved a bill which would create 70 new federal judgeships, several of them in Pennsylvania.

Sixty would be in district courts. Of that number six would be in Pennsylvania. The other 10 are in circuit courts of appeals, including the Third Circuit, which takes in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and the Virgin Islands. The Third Circuit would get one more judge.

Emanuel Celler, D-N. Y., chairman of the committee, said he expects to get house action on the bill right after Easter.

As passed earlier in the year by the senate, the bill called for 73 new judgeships. The federal judicial conference has recommended creation of 69 new judicial places, and the Kennedy administration adopted this recommendation. The House committee bill settles for 70.

Bethlehem Youth De Molay's Head

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The International Supreme Council of the Order of De Molay Tuesday announced selection of Richard R. Shunk, 17, Bethlehem, as the outstanding member of the organization in Pennsylvania.

Shunk is past master counselor of Wilbur De Molay Chapter, president of the senior class in high school and editor of the school yearbook. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Shunk.

De Molay is a youth organization affiliated with the masonic order.

Sea Paint At Work

Boating Time Is Near

IN A SHORT time it will be "anchors aweigh" for the more than 8,000,000 enthusiasts of America's fastest growing sport. Pleasure boats of all sizes will take to the sea for some earnest fishing or leisurely cruising. But before the fun begins, the wise seaman will call all hands on deck to be sure his craft is safe and seaworthy.

Don't think that your metal or fiberglass boat is "maintenance free." Here's what the Federal "Proposed Trade Practice Rules for the Pleasure Boat Industry," released Dec. 22, 1960:

"It is the consensus of the industry that no boat of present manufacture is completely maintenance free under all normal conditions of use."

Whatever type boat you own, wood — metal — fiberglass, it should be adequately protected against the destructive effects of water and weather. Quality paint provides this needed protection and there are special marine paints and painting methods for every type of boat. Seasonal painting, at least in touch up fashion, means longer life for your boat, with beauty thrown in as a bonus.

Wooden boats must be inspected carefully for scaled or blistered paint, which must be removed. Follow with a thorough scrubbing, using a good cleaning solution to remove dirt, grease and other foreign matter. Rinse well and let the boat dry out. Next, remove old caulking from seams and replace with new quality caulking compound. At the same time, fill any dents, scratches and nail holes. When the caulking is dry, sand smooth.

Bare wood, below and above the water line, should be primed with a quality marine primer. Next, apply two coats of anti-fouling marine paint to the below water line surfaces. This coating repels borers and other fouling organisms and is recommended for boats in both fresh and salt water. Anti-fouling paint should be mixed well and should not be thinned unless the label so directs. Above the water line, apply one or two coats of special marine paint, available in a wide color assortment. This, too requires thorough mixing. Before applying marine paint to plywood surfaces, use an undercoat of special plywood primer.

After a season or two of sea boats often become dingy. Paint not only removes the fiberglass surface, but it also covers scratches, dents and repairwork. Areas which have become faded, roughened or streaked will be smoothed with a new coat of color.

Fiberglass craft must be thoroughly cleaned of dirt, oil and grease. Rinse and let dry. Sand lightly with a fine grain sandpaper to provide a better bond with the new paint. Next, apply a fiberglass primer of the type recommended by the manufacturer of the paint you intend to use. When dry, sand lightly again. Then apply two coats of anti-fouling paint to the below water line surfaces, and two coats of marine paint to surfaces above the water line. Be sure to sand lightly between coats.

Unpainted aluminum boats should be thoroughly clean and dry. If a whitish film is present, it should be removed by sanding and careful wiping with solvent. Rinse away and let dry. Below the water line, apply a coat of quality metal primer. Follow with four coats of anti-corrosive paint and two coats of anti-fouling paint. Surfaces below the water line also require priming, followed by two coats of anti-corrosive paint and two coats of marine paint.

For best results, previously painted aluminum boats should be completely stripped to bare metal and treated the same as unpainted aluminum boats. For a touch-up job, follow this process: After cleaning, apply two coats of zinc chromate to below water line surfaces. Follow with two coats of anti-fouling paint. Above the water line, apply a prime coat of zinc chromate to bare and scratched areas, and follow with two coats of marine paint.

'Drop-In' Is Ideal Range For Home

A NEW, "drop-in" electric range now on the market is ideal for families who want to improve their kitchens without major renovations.

These new electric ranges provide the built-in look without costly carpentry and cabinetry, and are as mobile as a free-standing range. This means the housewife who grows fond of her new electric range won't have to worry about leaving it behind if the family moves.

Many models of the new "drop-in" unit fit neatly between cabinets or other appliances, resting on a low, recessed toe-molding. Some others also are designed to hang on the wall. All have the fine engineering and automatic devices that make even good cooks cook better electrically.

If your building or remodeling plans call for an automatic electric dishwasher, make sure it will be supplied with hot water—at least 140 degrees.

Today's electric dishwashers scour dishes, pots, pans, and utensils with repeated jets of water and detergent, then rinse them several times.

This action, using adequately hot water, insures hygienically clean table and cooking ware that protects family health.

Features Trim Lines Plus Many Features

IF YOU NEED four bedrooms, here's a design that has neat, trim lines plus many of your favorite features.

Notice how the easy-to-work in kitchen and the large dining nook both face the street. The busy mother can watch youngsters at play while she does her chores or has her coffee break. Also note the convenient location of the lavatory—it is not only accessible for the busy housewife in the kitchen, but ideal for the children playing outside or dad working out in the yard. No muddy feet on mom's clean floors.

More and more families are asking that the living room be located at the rear of the home to assure greater privacy. This living and dining area includes an entranceway to the terrace, thus expanding your social area. The beautiful floor-to-ceiling fireplace is well placed with a built-in, open shelf bookcase and cabinet along side it.

The dining area has a built-in china cabinet as an added attraction, or this area could very well be incorporated into a very large living and family room. Think of the variety of ways you can arrange your furniture in this section.

The bedrooms in this home are all roomy with loads of closet space and window area. Notice the built-in bookcase in the back bedroom, certainly an ideal feature for the student or "bookworm" in the family. The main bathroom has a vanity and a linen and towel cabinet, with an extra linen closet in the hall.

This home has excellent traffic pattern with a full basement. Note the privacy of the vestibule, no intrusion into the interior here, but leads to a central hall, from which each room can be easily reached. All in all, you have the ingredients for years of comfortable living. Brick veneer construction keeps maintenance cost at a minimum.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. You can obtain the building plans and specifications with material list and plan study kit telling How to Read Plans, obtain cost and finance this home—see order coupon at bottom of this page.

Insulation Helps Afford Better House

IF HOME builders used greater amounts of insulation than the minimum required by the Federal Housing Administration, more families would be eligible to buy better houses with FHA-issued mortgages.

A method to determine exactly how families with lower incomes can be made eligible for financing assistance has resulted from a joint research project of the National Association of Home Builders and the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association.

The study was based on the fact that as home operating costs decrease, the owner can afford higher monthly mortgage payments.

In a typical case, the addition of a moderate amount of insulation to a house would reduce the monthly fuel bill by $2.83 while the monthly mortgage payment would increase 47 cents to pay for the additional insulation. Under the FHA's system of rating "buyer's ability to pay," the amount of annual income required to be eligible for the better insulated house would be $200 less than for the one with minimum insulation.

With the same income requirement, a buyer would be eligible for a better house. For example, he could afford a $14,800 house instead of one priced at $14,300.

The extent of change in eligibility rating would vary from one FHA field office jurisdiction to another. Heating fuel costs, efficiency of the heating system, and the severity of the climate also would have an effect.

The Heating Index system has been characterized by M. Carter McFarland, chief economist of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, as a "very ingenious and sound device." An explanation of the system has been sent by FHA headquarters in Washington to all field offices.

The FHA letter asks field office directors to use the Heating Index system in carrying out the previously established policy of giving credit for efficient materials and design to reduce a home owner's monthly operating expense.

Versatile Hanging Bookshelf

THERE ARE so many places where this style of shelf can be used to advantage, it's almost impossible to enumerate all of them. No room or hallway is ever out of bounds as far as this bookshelf is concerned. Whether used over a stove to keep herbs and seasonings within convenient reach, over a boy's reading table for favorite books, or in a teen-age daughter's room to store newly-acquired beauty preparations, this project gets considerable use.

Because it's easy to build and costs so little, it's a popular one night project with beginners as well as the skilled woodworker. Starting directly after dinner you can trace the pattern on wood and, following step-by-step directions, saw and assemble it before you go to bed.

If you have a gift problem coming up, try your hand making and giving these shelves. They go together quickly and two can be cut at one time. Finish each to match furnishings where used. You'll get a real bang working with your hands besides making gifts that are really appreciated.

Working with wood pays off in two ways; it provides the economical answer to many problems while it offers complete relaxation and entertainment.

Send 50 cents in coin, check or money order for Hanging Bookshelf Pattern No. 21 to The Daily Record, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, New York. Send additional 35 cents for catalog illustrating over 300 other Build It Yourself projects.

Windows Today Easier To Wash

GIVE a thought to future window washing when you choose windows for remodeling an old house or building a new one.

Windows of ponderosa pine are available today in many styles and types that make washing windows less of a chore and much safer.

Some models have sash that can be lifted out of the frame for easy washing inside the house. Others—such as many casement, awning and hopper styles—open so that both sides of the glass can be cleaned from inside.

These innovations do away with dangerous ladder-climbing and bucket-hauling. By making window washing easier, they also encourage cleaning windows more often, resulting in a better looking house inside and out.

Bird Resistant Corn!

Scarecrows aren't very effective in big cornfields. So Ohio's determined, imaginative farmers are working on a more positive, permanent scheme to keep blackbirds and starlings from dining on and damaging their corn.

that at least has made the birds work harder to get a meal. The new variety has a heavier, tighter husk developed through cross-breeding of other varieties. It is more difficult for the birds to rip open the husk to get at the tender kernels.

They have developed a hybrid. Advertise In The Daily Record

Sgt. Titus Training In Germany

ARMY Sgt. 1/C Russell P. Titus, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Titus, Saylorsburg, Route 1, is participating with other personnel from the 3d Armored Division's 1st Cavalry in a six-week field training exercise in Grafenwohr, Germany. The unit's phase of the training is scheduled to end March 28. The exercise is designed to provide training under cold weather conditions during day and night maneuvers. The Grafenwohr training area is the largest training site available to NATO forces in Europe. The 3d is one of five U.S. divisions in NATO's "Pyramid of Power." Sgt. Titus, a tank commander in the cavalry's Company B in Kirch Gons, entered the Army in 1949 and arrived overseas on this tour of duty in October 1958.

Forced To Walk

HAVANA (AP)—The U.S. embargo on trade with Cuba is forcing many Cuban bus users to walk. The Transport Workers Union said many bus stops are being eliminated because frequent halts wear out brakes and replacement parts are available only in the United States.

Choraliers, Glee Club Set For Palm Sunday Service

THE CHORALIERS and the Glee Club of East Stroudsburg High School will sing at the Palm Sunday Vesper Service of The East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, March 26, at 4:30 p.m.

Both organizations are under the direction of Kenneth Raessler, William Stine and Linda Nittel are the accompanists.

The Choraliers will sing three selections: "How Shall I Filly Meet Thee" Bach, "I May Never Pass This Way Again", an arrangement by Ringwald and "Roots and Leaves" by Williams. The Choraliers are pictured above.

The Glee Club of more than a hundred voices will be heard in: "Let There Be Music" Williams, "Deep River" A negro spiritual, "The Creation" by Richter, "Cantata Domino" Piloni, "The Omnipotence" Franz Schubert, "Psalm 95" McRae, "Pilgrims Chorus" Richard Wagner, and "The Hallelujah Chorus" Friedrich Handel.

Rev. William Dearn will direct the devotional part of the vesper service and Rev. Harold C. Eaton will give the Lenten Meditation, "Behold Your King".

Parents and friends of the Choraliers and the Glee Club are invited to attend the service.

Mayor Wagner Has Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert Wagner, in a 50-minute operation, yesterday had a small tumor removed from behind his right ear. As predicted, it proved to be noncancerous.

Dr. Daniel Catlin, the mayor's surgeon, said he believes the tumor has been completely eradicated.

The tumor, the size of an egg yolk, was located in the carotid gland, situated at the division of a main artery passing up the neck to supply blood to the head.

Religious Emphasis At ESSC

TODAY marks the start of the 18th year of observance of Religious Emphasis Week on the campus of East Stroudsburg State College.

The week's program opens with an all-college convocation at 2 p.m. today. Student and faculty representatives of Protestantism, Catholicism, Judaism and Buddhism will speak on "What Religion Means To Me."

Participating speakers are Judith Lenhart, Paul Katz, Wontung Park, Carolyn D. Riley, Mary S. Strine, Dr. Lura E. Evans of the health and physical education department, and Charles P. Perkins of the education department.

A brass quartette of student musicians plus student vocalists will provide musical interludes. In 1943 Religious Emphasis Week was initiated at ESSC. It has been continued, without interruption, since then.

Jersey Assembly Okays Compact

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate what it called a history-making pact to guarantee the water resources of the Delaware River Basin for years to come.

The bill would join New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware and the federal government in a super-agency with the control of the river which supplies water to more than 16 million persons.

New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has already signed the measure but the compact must still get approval from Congress, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Dear Abby

Don't Pull Any Punches

Dear Abby: What do you do about a teacher who doesn't do her job? My daughter is in the fifth grade and is failing in her work. She brings home papers that some child has corrected and everything is marked wrong. Unless I, and the rest of my family, have forgotten everything we learned in school, a good portion of her answers were right. Still the teacher accepts the grade given by a mere child. We used to grade each other's papers once in a while when I went to school, but the teacher always went over the papers again herself. Don't tell me to talk to the teacher because I have tried that, and she is either hard of hearing or doesn't care.

ANGRY PARENT

Dear Angry: Give the teacher one more chance. Write her a note telling her that you would like to talk to her before you talk to the principal. I think you'll find her hearing improved.

Dear Abby: My husband is 52 years old and for the last six months we have been trying to get him to take a bath. He wears the same shirt, socks and underwear for three weeks straight. He insists they are not dirty. I have to sneak his clothes out of his room when he's asleep in order to launder them. He claims it is too cold to take a bath or shower. He does wash his hands and face when he gets up in the morning. He is a real sweetheart in every other way. We've tried everything. What now?

WIFE AND FAMILY

Dear Wife and Family: There is something wrong with a grown man who is afraid of soap and water. If you can't get your "sweetheart" to listen to a doctor's lecture on the importance of bodily cleanliness — pray for an early summer.

Dear Abby: At a family get-together (at the home of a sister-in-law) I offered to help her clear the table after dinner. She said, "Thanks a lot — I'd rather do it myself — these ain't my PLASTIC dishes, you know."

Abby, I felt like two cents. Maybe my dishes aren't as good as hers, but I can certainly carry dishes from the table to the

Steelers Boss Leaves Hospital

PITTSBURGH (AP)—David J. McDonald, head of the United Steelworkers Union, left Mercy Hospital Tuesday with orders to take it easy for awhile before assuming his normal duties.

McDonald was hospitalized on March 9 for a respiratory infection and an over-all medical checkup.

Police Raid Gets Big Haul

MONTREAL (AP)—Police disclosed a raid on a downtown rooming house Monday netted $35,000 in counterfeit $10 bills, $75,000 in stolen bonds and two revolvers. The landlady said the room in which the loot was found was rented two weeks ago by a man who slept there once and never returned.

Apple Industry Is In A Dither

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's apple industry is in a dither over a House bill its sponsors say will help promote the sale of apples through a big promotion program.

The legislation proposes setting up a self-supporting cooperative association to promote the sale of apples. It has the support of the Lawrence administration.

But inside the apple-growing industry itself there are those who are enthusiastic about the plan and there are others who are convinced it is unnecessary.

Amid all the debate, the issue of the little growers versus the big growers has been put into play by one legislator. Rep. Francis Worley, Republican from Apple-rich Adams County, said on the floor of the House two weeks ago that the little growers in his county were against it.

Lancaster Cattle

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Cattle: 200 high choice and prime slaughter steers 27.50-28.00; good grade feeder steers 23.50-25.00; good and choice stock calves 27.00-30.00.

Agree To Needed Boating Rules

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Fish Commission yesterday agreed to establish a state boating advisory committee to help set up rules and regulations for administering the state's boating laws.

Commission Director Albert M. Day said after a commission meeting that the commission "will proceed immediately" after a bill amending the present law is passed by the General Assembly.

"I think we could do it within a month after the bill is passed," said Day.

The advisory committee idea actually is a compromise reached by the commission and the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs at a special meeting Friday.

Gov. Lawrence's administration also is expected to sponsor a bill amending the boating law in the House. It, too, might be introduced this week.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

People are full of surprises. Among Dr. Eugene Powers' many accomplishments, for instance, is the fact that he can read Gaelic—well enough to translate Irish St. Patrick's greetings, anyway.

The reason the impeccably dressed Madalyn Shinn is wearing sneakers, even with evening dresses, these days is because she fractured her toe in a manner she'd just as soon not discuss, thank you. Her friends are volunteering to sew on sequins but she's rated so many whistles from the high school boys that she thinks she'll wear them as is.

The reason Fred Titus commutes all the way to Millford every day becomes much clearer when you've seen that big house of theirs with a fireplace in the kitchen whose warmth makes even the latest Spring a welcome excuse.

Barriers across newly-completed roads may furnish legal excuses to protect contractors but they sure don't keep out the traffic. The new cut-off from Water Gap to Minisink Hills is proving right popular with Shawnee residents these days.

But speaking of something new, looks as if the Community Improvement committee is getting started at just the right time. Stalled at the Fifth St. traffic light on the new bridge, you get vistas up and down the Pocono Creek, which suggest all sort of possibilities.

We never have capitalized on the scenic value of the streams which wander through the towns. We've used them more as drainage ditches or to back factories up to or dump ashes down. With the flood control clearing away the trees which made them refreshing in the brief glimpses you could get of them, they cry for improvements—walks, for instance, and picnic tables may be, or bicycle paths, with benches here and there.

But somebody better put some trees back somewhere soon or the towns are going to look as bald as western cowtowns.

Evaluation Of Stroud Union High School By Educators, Graduates Reported

Stroud Union High School as seen through the eyes of the outside educators who evaluated the school, and through the eyes of recent graduates who answered a PTA questionnaire was presented to the members of the Parent-Teachers Assn. at their meeting on Monday night.

In both cases, the school came out well but the educators directed their recommendations to the community at large and the graduates their criticism to their own lack of application in high school.

Mrs. Andrew Kaiser introduced the speakers. Principal Alfred Munson reviewed the findings of the 17-man survey team who worked in the school from eight until midnight for a week.

The committee, in their report, commended the administration and teachers for the excellent work they were doing under adverse conditions.

More Room, More Teachers

These adverse conditions which they felt should be called to the attention of the community were: overcrowded faculty and over-crowded classes.

They recommended 12 to 18 additional classrooms at once and more teachers to staff them. They praised the high quality of the curriculum as being far above average and the dedication of the teachers and administration but advised immediate relief from the heavy workload.

At present the teachers have six classes per day and more than 200 students, they discovered, when the goal is five classes a day with no more than 30 students per class. Department heads should have only three or four classes a day so that they have time to observe classes and oversee the department, they recommended.

Many of the present problems, they reported, stemmed from the 8-period school day made necessary by lack of space for classrooms. The extra periods increases class spaces from 910 to 965 but also creates problems

American Folk Music For DAR

Early American settlers were too busy to compose songs, but hymns and singing schools, ballads brought from their own country still kept people singing, members of the Jacob Stroud Chapter of the Daughters of the American Music learned at their meeting on Monday at the Stroud Community House.

The program on "American Folk Music" from 1492 to Edward McDowell, 1861, was arranged and narrated by Mrs. Lucy Quig and Hans Buedicker. In 1700 Boston only had 7,000 people, they pointed out, the first organ appeared in 1740; the first piano in 1775.

Hopkinson, 1737 through 1784, was the most memorable of the early American composers; Stephen Foster, 1826-1864 one of the most prolific with more than 200 songs, they said.

Their program illustrated many of the songs, drawn from many national sources. Old hymnals and singing books were displayed and the music in them arranged for the string trio by Hans Buedicker.

Earliest music on the program were the hymns dated 1756 by William Billings and James Lyon. Mrs. Herbert Yutz sang "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free" by Francis Hopkinson; and "Nora, Dear Nora" from the early opera "The Poor Soldier" by Shields.

The string trio played "Washington's March" by Hopkinson. Buedicker played the piano; Mrs. Valerie Kresge, cello; and Hans Rohlf, the violin.

The string trio and a vocal quartette combined in "Old Folks at Home" by Stephen Foster. The quartette included Mrs. Clarence Transue, Mrs. Raymond Herman, Mrs. Herbert Yutz, and Mrs. James Toner. The quartette also sang a spiritual "Climb Jacob's Ladder."

Mrs. Quig played "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" by Foster.

Vocal solos included "Boil Weevil Song" and Cowboy's Lament" by Mrs. Toner; and "I Wonder As I Wander" by Mrs. Yutz. Finale was Edward MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and "Virginia Square Dance" played by the string trio.

At the business meeting the names of new members admitted since 1959 were read: Mrs. Ira Kingner, Mrs. Donald Dimmick, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Charles Frank, Miss Delores Lesoine, Mrs. Edwin J. Sloat, Mrs. Bernard C. Rowe, Mrs. Evan C. Reese and Mrs. Walter Stevens.

The meeting and program were preceded by dessert.

Wooddale WSCS Collects Infants Wear

Wooddale—Infants garments were collected for the Ingathering of the Women's Society of Christian Service at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church to be sent to the Deaconess Home in Philadelphia at the meeting of the Wooddale Union WSCS this week at the home of Mrs. Chester Van Vleet. 'Best' Brokerage Firms

By William A. Doyle
Q. I am looking for a broker to handle my account. In every field there are men of special competence, the Mickey Mantles and Babe Ruths who stand out above all the rest. Could you name a few who are so regarded in the brokerage field? One would be enough, but I know you want to avoid the appearance of favoritism.

A. Sorry, but the answer is no. Readers write in all the time, asking for recommendations of the "best brokerage firms" and the "best customers' men." This column simply cannot answer these questions. There are thousands upon thousands of people in the brokerage business. Their talents are varied. But there is no way to grade them on ability.

Q. I bought 100 shares of Libby McNeill & Libby common stock two years ago. I have received a $10 dividend (10 cents a share) every three months. I recently received a copy of the company's semi-annual report. It states that the dividend on common stock was 31 cents per share in 1959 and 11 cents a share in 1960. I don't understand this. Do you?

A. You have confused dividends with earnings. You had better read that report again. It did not state what you say it did. The report did show that in the six months ended Dec. 31, 1960, Libby, McNeill & Libby earned a net profit of $701,372, equal to 11 cents on each of its outstanding shares of common stock. In the similar period of 1959, earnings were $1,564,644, or 31 cents a share.

ASSEMBLY BEGINNING—Herb Frenchko (left) and Tom Mannick, install one-horsepower motor on aluminum frame of golf car at the Obitz-Farley's Phillipsburg, N.J. plant. The finished cart will weigh only 350 pounds. (Staff Photos by Prins)

OPEN FOR INSPECTION—The fiberglass body of the Go Far is hinged in the rear so that it can be removed for access to the battery and motor. Each car is tested before it leaves the factory.

SHIPPING POINT—Dick Farley drives car onto trailer for shipment to dealer. The company expects to have 400 cars built by April 30, all of them sold before production.

Former Shawnee Inn Pros Now Building One-Man Golf Cars

By CURT PRINS
Daily Record Sports Editor
PHILIPSBURG, N.J.—Obitz-Farley Co., one of the leading names in golf operation may soon be among the leaders in golf cart manufacturing.

The company has developed a one-man electric golf car that has been so successful, Dick Farley estimates the company will have turned out 400 carts by April 30, all of them sold before production.

Called the "Go Far," the cart is smaller than an average size refrigerator but is so powerful it can tow a large automobile or push 500 pounds (dead weight) across a floor.

Powered by a 200-pound battery, the cart travels 72 holes without recharging. The battery was developed for use in mines as a power plant for ore cars.

Fiberglass Body
The car, including battery, weighs only 350 pounds. The frame is made of one-piece aluminum, while the body is moulded fiberglass.

The entire rear section of the body can be lifted, completely exposing the compact motor and battery. The car is chain driven and is capable of traveling up to 15 mph safely.

A patented front end suspension, invented by Dick Mansback, of Easton, the company's vice president-production, allows the car to travel across 45 percent grades without tipping over and also acts as a shock absorber.

The car has its own built-in battery charger, allowing the cart to be charged on house current. Most golf carts require a separate charging unit.

Assembly Point
The pieces of the carts are shipped to the Obitz-Farley plant in Phillipsburg and assembled there.

The first model of the car was hand-built at Phillipsburg by Mansback and Larry Kutz, the factory foreman. Since the first hand-built model, several new features have been added and many improvements made.

Several of the steering improvements were patterned after Go-Karts, pint-sized gasoline frame racers. The borrow from the Karts is not to be unexpected, since Kutz is one of the top Kart drivers in the East. He entered 32 races last year and won 29 of them, including three Eastern Championships.

Kutz isn't the only racing driver in the plant. Herb Frenchko, a master mechanic, is one of the top stock car drivers at Nazareth Speedway and Dorney Park during the summer.

According to Farley, the car was built as a vehicle that will rent in the price range between the bigger two-golfer car and the hand pull cart.

"We eliminated all the frills on our car," says Farley "and combined the good features of the other cars we have used in our golf operations."

Obitz was the head professional at Shawnee Inn for 15 years until he resigned a month ago to devote more time to the cars.

Gopher Tag
Obitz tagged the cars with its trademark, A Gopher (Go Far) sitting on a golf ball. The gopher, called Happy Gus, was drawn by John Pierotti, the president of the National Cartoonists Assn.

The cars have not completely taken over Obitz-Farley's other golf interests.

The company will still run the golf courses at Tamiment-in-the-Poconos, White Face Inn, Lake Placid, N.Y. and Palm Aire Country Club, Pompano Beach, Fla.

FLORIDA FLEET SERVICE—The Obitz-Farley Co., which handles the golf operation at Palm Aire Country Club, Pompano Beach, Fla., has its own fleet of Go Fars. The cars are produced in four colors but so far there have been no two-tone models.

At Kansas City Truck Defense Set Against Jerry Lucas

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — "How'll we handle Jerry Lucas?" asked Jack Ramsay, coach of the St. Joseph's (Pa.) team that plays mighty Ohio State in the semifinals of the National Collegiate (NCAA) Basketball Championships here Friday night.

"That's easy," Ramsay answered. "We'll have a man in a truck who's going to nail him when he walks out of the hotel. If he misses, we're out of business."

Ramsay, Coach Fred Taylor of Ohio State and the coaches of the other national semifinalists—Jack Gardner of Utah and Ed Jucker of Cincinnati, were talking to newsmen at a luncheon Tuesday from their respective campus offices via a four-way telephone hookup.

"Seriously," Ramsay said from Philadelphia, where his Hawks are winding up preparations for their first trip to the national showdown, "we're fully aware of Ohio State's great strength."

Momentum Gained
"But we have momentum now. We didn't expect to get to Charlotte, N.C. (for the Eastern Regional Championships) and we certainly weren't expected to come out of there alive. But we did both."

"Team play and desire," he said, "have brought us this far."

Buckeye Coach Taylor, asked if he thought Ohio's 31-game streak has put undue pressure on the players, said as far as the Bucks are concerned the string is only two games.

"Our season ended with the Illinois game that ended the regular schedule," Taylor said. "Now we've a two-game streak in the tournament (after victories over Louisville and Kentucky). That's all we consider it."

Close Shave
Asked about the close shave against Louisville in the Midwest Regional semifinals last Friday, when the Bucks won 56-55 after trailing by five points with less than three minutes to go, Taylor said:

"We didn't play nearly as well as we are capable of playing, but a club has to win on a bad night once in a while. It certainly was one of our toughest games. Louisville played very well and we hope that game will give us the momentum to go the rest of the way."

Gardner, former Kansas State coach who takes his Utah Redskins against second-ranked Cincinnati and the Beavers' 20-game winning streak in Friday's second semifinal, said his club was in as good shape as it has been all season, and raved again about his 6-9 pivotman, Billy (the Hill) McGill.

Jucker, the former assistant who rebuilt Cincinnati into a powerful club despite the loss of Oscar Robertson, said he had nothing special in mind for Utah.

"After 28 games, we're not going to do anything different now."

Hoop Scandal May Involve South Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Sports Illustrated said Tuesday night in an article on "The Facts about the Fixers" that the college basketball scandal will involve "a number of Southern state universities" and "players and teams in both the major post-season tournaments: The NCAA and NIT."

The article, by Jeremiah Tax in the March 27 issue of the weekly sports magazine which reaches newsstands Wednesday, declared that the case will take "at least six more weeks to unwind" and that there will be "exposure of more bribes and players."

Off To Carolina
"On Monday of this week, New York City detectives were sent to the University of North Carolina and Philadelphia's LaSalle College to bring in several players for questioning. By Monday, too, it developed that three students at the University of Connecticut—not one—had been questioned."

The story of the basketball scandal broke last week-end when Aaron Wagman, who previously had been convicted of trying to bribe a University of Florida football player to shave points in a football game, and Joseph Hackman were arrested here.

District Attorney Frank Hogan's office indicated then that 15 to 20 colleges across the country may be involved in the spreading scandal.

Asked about the close shave against Louisville in the Midwest Regional semifinals last Friday, when the Bucks won 56-55 after trailing by five points with less than three minutes to go, Taylor said:

"We didn't play nearly as well as we are capable of playing, but a club has to win on a bad night once in a while. It certainly was one of our toughest games. Louisville played very well and we hope that game will give us the momentum to go the rest of the way."

N. Y. Paper Has Lip Managing

NEW YORK (AP) — Leo Durocher will be named manager of the New York team in the National League within 48 hours, the World-Telegram & Sun said Tuesday.

Durocher's selection as field director of the new team, which Tuesday agreed to do its spring training in St. Petersburg, Fla., was predicted by The Associated Press in a Miami Beach dispatch on March 14.

The telegram said Tuesday that George Weiss, former New York Yankee general manager, would return to New York later this week and make the Durocher announcement. Late last week Weiss took over as president of the new club.

Title Contest On Television

THE PIAA Class A State Championship basketball game will be televised Saturday at 7:30 from the State Farm Show Arena in Harrisburg.

It will be the 41st championship game and the ninth year that the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania has sponsored the telecast.

WFIL-TV, channel 6, Philadelphia and WNEP-TV (UHF) Scranton—Wilkes-Barre, will carry the game.

Yankees Shift Spring Camp
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees will shift their spring training headquarters from St. Petersburg to Fort Lauderdale next year and the New York team of the National League will take their place at St. Petersburg.

The expected move of the Yankees was confirmed Tuesday by the Yankees and St. Petersburg officials.

Exhibition Baseball Round-Up Pirates Top Phils 7-5; Yanks, Braves Beaten

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates scored all their runs in two innings Tuesday to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-5 in an exhibition baseball game.

The Pirates got to right-hander John Buzhardt for three runs in the fourth and right-hander Dallas Green for four more in the seventh.

Southpaw Bobby Shantz yielded one run to the Phillies in the first inning. When his shoulder tightened up, Jack Kelly took over and gave up another run after filling the bases with walks.

In the eighth, B. G. Smith singled, Ted Savage walked, Lee Wall doubled, scoring Smith and Joe Koppe doubled, scoring Savage and Wall for three Philadelphia runs, all off southpaw Fred Green.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. It left the Tigers with an exhibition record of 9-3.

COOPER'S record now is 23-1 including 15 knockouts. In building up his streak he outpointed Zora Foley and Ray Harris of the United States, Alex Miteff of Argentina, and knocked out Erskine in a previous title fight in the 12th round.

Patterson, after knocking out Ingemar Johansson in the sixth round of their third title fight at Miami Beach, Fla., March 13, said Cooper was "a very worthy challenger."

The 188-pound Londoner cut the 190-pound Erskine's face into a bloody mess with a snapping left jab. He cut Erskine about both eyes and on the forehead. By the end of the fifth round, the Welshman's left eye was closed to a mere slit. His seconds called the referee over and the fight was all over.

No Chance
Erskine never had a chance. Cooper, determined to earn a shot at Patterson, stormed right after his opponent. He ripped a vicious left hook to the body and had Erskine retreating. In the second round the blond Englishman again concentrated his attack to the body. In the third round he shifted to the head and started to cut up Erskine with his stinging left jabs.

More Cuts
In the next round Cooper's nagging and accurate left opened a cut about Erskine's left eye, and also another one on the forehead.

Cooper was in charge and there was never any need for him to land his solid left hook—his payoff punch. All his lefts were straight.

The fifth round started with Erskine back-peddaling and Cooper chasing him with his left. At the end of the round Erskine, his left eye closed, his right eye cut and with another bruise on his forehead, went back to his corner a shattered man.

His seconds called over Referee Andy Smythe and told him it was impossible for Erskine to continue.

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Catcher Johnny Joseboro's second two-run homer of the game boosted the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 16-15 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Tuesday in a wild 11-inning exhibition slugfest before a crowd of 1,705.

St. Clair Wins Title

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Substitutes Ron Kalyon and Solon Honicker came off the bench Tuesday night to score St. Clair High School's first six points in an extra period and spark the Saints to an 89-82 basketball victory over Luzerne High in the PIAA Class B eastern final.

Kalyon scored only four points in the game and they were St. Clair's first four of the overtime session. Honicker followed with a field goal to give the Saints an 84-80 spread. The Lions (21-5) never caught up.

Yankees Shift Spring Camp

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees will shift their spring training headquarters from St. Petersburg to Fort Lauderdale next year and the New York team of the National League will take their place at St. Petersburg.

The expected move of the Yankees was confirmed Tuesday by the Yankees and St. Petersburg officials.

To Start Rotating

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The word "manager" is taboo in the Chicago Cubs' camp, but ex-Kansas City A's pilot Harry Craft Tuesday appeared the likely coach-in-charge when the Cubs open at Cincinnati April 11.

How a head coach differs from a manager may be a matter of terminology, except that with the Cubs the head man will be on a rotating basis under owner P.K. Wrigley's "new baseball approach."

Monday, the club announced that four men—Craft, Elvin Tappe, Bobby Adams and Vedic Himsel—from a nine-coach staff would begin the season at the major league level.

Favorite First
Because Craft managed the A's from midway through the 1957 season through the 1959 campaign and was Lou Boudreau's No. 1 Cub aide last year, the betting is he gets first shot at bossing the 1961 Cubs. Tappe, 1960 Cub coach, is strong second choice.
